National Outlook

Some economy observers are pointing to 2018 as the final period in a long string of happy years of buyer demand and sales excitement for the housing industry. Although residential real estate should continue along a mostly positive line for the rest of the year, rising prices and interest rates coupled with salary stagnation and a generational trend toward home purchase delay or even disinterest could create an environment of declining sales.

Greater Charlottesville

The median sales price increased 1.9 percent to $340,000 for detached homes and 11.8 percent to $259,900 for attached homes. Median days on market decreased 8.1 percent for detached homes and 13.3 percent for attached homes.

“The Greater Charlottesville market is exhibiting steady growth in median sales price and closed sales for the third quarter as well as year-over-year,” said CAAR President Arleen Yobs. “While inventory of homes for sale in the third quarter is slightly down for the Greater Charlottesville area, the City of Charlottesville saw the biggest jump in inventory (40.0%). Residents are paying attention and know now is the time to put their house on the market.”

“As the Greater Charlottesville area saw a slight increase in new listings for the third quarter, both Greene and the City of Charlottesville saw the largest gains - over 38%,” said President-Elect Tele Jenifer. “Greene also had the highest percentage of pending sales (81%) which bodes well for the fourth quarter.”

Albemarle County

The median sales price increased 5.9 percent to $471,500 for detached homes and 11.6 percent to $270,608 for attached homes. Median days on market remained flat for detached homes but increased 25.6 percent for attached homes.

City of Charlottesville

The median sales price increased 8.8 percent to $360,000 for detached homes and 14.4 percent to $262,886 for attached homes. Median days on market increased 56.0 percent for detached homes but decreased 63.3 percent for attached homes.

Fluvanna County
